Expressions

Everyone expresses himself in a different way. The student uses his head. The athlete uses his head and his hands. The artist, regardless of his art, uses his head, hands, and heart. Then surely we must all be artists for we put so much heart into everything we do.

Expressions

At the opening ceremonies of the Yorktown Victory Center, flagbearers wear uniforms of the Revolution. See Introduction page 4.

Presidential Candidates Campaign

With the end of the Vietnam conflict and the fading of Watergate, there appeared to be no solid issues for candidate debate during the 1976 Presidential campaign. Governor Jimmy Carter of Georgia struggled to establish a name for himself as a Democratic candidate. Although other candidates were more widely known, Carter's nomination appeared to be a certainty as the Democrates headed for their convention in New York.

A hotly-contested Republican race found former actor Ronald Reagan once again in the spot light. Incumbent Gerald Ford felt constant pressure from Reagan as the two Republicans fought for the nomination. Unlike the wide range of Democratic possibilities, only Reagan and Ford competed for their party's bid at the Presidency.

The violence of the 60's which resulted in the deaths of John Kennedy, Robert Kennedy, and Martin Luther King threatened the security of the President. Lynette Fromme, a member of Charles Manson's "family," and Sara Jane Moore both attempted on separate occasions to assassinate Gerald Ford.

Students Observe Bicentennial

As teachers in Boston and Delaware went on strike, Governor Mills Godwin announced a 5 per cent reduction of basic state aid to schools. Funds for special programs were reduced, and the use of layreaders in the secondary schools was abolished. Meanwhile, women coaches testified in the U.S. District Court in Newport News in a $100,000 sex discrimination suit against the Hampton School Board.

Students remembered Martin Luther King's birthday with a special program in the lecture room. In observance of the Bicentennial, Revolutionary costumes were worn during Spirit Week. Throughout the Peninsula, Bicentennial activities were planned, culminating with a large fireworks display at Fort Monroe on July 4.

Senior Kim Cooper and David Hobbs are introduced at halftime of the Homecoming game.

Being a chairman for Homecoming meant alot to me. It meant participating in elections, dances, parades, pep rallies, and football games. Meeting friends and decorating cars and the stadium are what I enjoy doing. Being a chairman of one of the events most meaningful to my friends shall never be forgotten. Since I like to be active and busy in all my endeavors, I feel that being a part of Homecoming helped me accomplish that goal.

Spirit Week A Success

Setting the theme for Homecoming festivities was a well-supported Spirit Week. Whether it was voting for the queen, dressing as a baby Bruin or wearing a Bicentennial costume, each student was given the opportunity to be involved in the Homecoming.

Climaxing Spirit Week was the annual parade, involving 31 cars. Clubs and classes decorated trucks and cars for the procession from Bethel to Darling Stadium. As helium-filled balloons were released during halftime, Miss Ilse Studenroth was announced queen. Making the event even more memorable, the football team won the first Homecoming game in three years.

Prior to the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, alumnus Tony West, Alma Junker, and Tim Wright walk onto the field.

Drama Club Presents Two Plays

Two plays were presented by the Drama Department. In the fall "Bad Seed" had the biggest audience the club had ever entertained. The play suggested that criminal tendencies can be passed from one generation to another. Terry Radvany played Rhoda, the "bad seed," and Lennie Tierney played Leroy, the handy man who suspected Rhoda of several mysterious murders. Alan Richardson and Teri Hallinger were the student directors.

In "Up the Down Staircase," the spring play, the problems faced by a New York high school teacher as she strove to change the system were presented. Leslie Jones portrayed the teacher, Miss Sylvia Barrett, and Jeff Friesz was Joe Ferone, a student who caused Miss Barrett unnecessary trouble. This play was directed by Randy Bishop and Barbara Kehoe and had the cast of 34 people.

In "Up the Down Staircase," Jeff Friesz argues with Leslie Jones about her disciplinary measures.

Christmas Spirit Unselfishly Shared

"Santa" Thomas James reads his revised version of " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Highlighting the annual Christmas Assembly was the presentation of a check for $3,016.85 to Mrs. Sylvia Zucker of the Sarah Bonwell Hudgins Regional Center. Through the unending fervor of Student Chairman Wayne Sommer, Mr. Michael Tylavsky, and Mrs. Susan Davis, this contribution was the largest in the school's history. The money was raised through the efforts of thirty-two enthusiastic teachers and the entire student body.

Providing entertainment during the assembly were the choral, band, and the drama students.

Never has the true spirit of Christmas been as unselfishly shared as it was in this Christmas gift.

Expressing her appreciation, Mrs. Sylvia Zucker addresses the student body.

Kim Cooper Crowned Miss BHS

On January 16, twenty-six young ladies performed their talent and modeled their evening and casual attire in the second annual Miss BHS Pageant.

After an introduction by Master of Ceremonies Dick Lamb, the contestants modeled their evening gowns which was the last form of competition before the ten semi-finalists were announced. The ten young ladies performed their talent. From the semi-finalists the judges chose five finalists.

Entertainment during intermission was provided by David and Mike Cowan. Then the five finalists were announced. As the anxiety grew, each finalist answered a question for the judges. After the judges deliberated, senior Kim Cooper was crowned Miss BHS.

Harvest Entertains Juniors

Refreshments of punch and cookies are served by Michelle Norton.

After hours of preparation, the big day for the Junior Class finally arrived. On March 6, the juniors and their dates gathered in the cafeteria to celebrate the receiving of their class rings. Providing music for the occasion was Harvest. Refreshments of cookies, punch, and a cake decorated especially for the evening were enjoyed by each of the guests.

Decorations of flowers and crepe paper streamers, set off by candlelight, added to the romantic atmosphere. As the night progressed, the couples stopped long enough to have their pictures taken. As the juniors left the dance, they reiterated their chosen theme, "Let This Moment Last Forever."

Carrying on the Bethel tradition, Teresa Williford has her date turn her class ring for the first of 77 turns.

Senior Prom Held on May 15

Dancing under twinkling stars, 500 seniors and their dates attended the Senior Prom. "Forever Came Today" on May 15. For the first time the prom was held at the Hellenic Community Center which proved to be the ideal setting for the affair. The hall was decorated with stars hung individually from the high ceiling. Candles and flowers were on every table. Entertainment was provided by Harvest. As the evening came to a close, seniors and their guests received champagne glasses with green and gold ribbons tied around them. Printed on the ribbons was the prom theme "Forever Came Today."

As the other seniors in the top 5 per cent of the class look on, Ilse Studenroth receives a Jefferson Cup from Mr. Gillikin.

Memories Theme For Seniors' Night

"Memories" was the theme of the 1976 Class Night held on May 27. Seniors wrote the program and performed skits ranging from Modern Dance routines to a magic act by Treasurer Jeff Deel. Mr. Gillikin awarded Jefferson Cups to the top 5 per cent of the Senior Class. Gifts were given to special friends of the Class of '76, including sponsor Mrs. Susan Davis, Mrs. Salway, Mr. Hairfield, and Mr. Tylavsky. A microphone and letters for the marquee were presented to the school as a remembrance from the seniors.

Accompanied by Bo Sexton, Sterling Mills sings "Bye Bye Bethel High."

Singer Denise Edwards performs "Memories" for the Class Night audience.

Seniors Jonathan Washington and Natasha Graves dance to the music from "Shaft."

Baccalaureate Held in Auditorium

In the past Bethel's seniors have joined seniors from all of the high schools in Hampton for a Baccalaureate service at the Coliseum. However, in an attempt to make Baccalaureate more meaningful, separate services were held at the individual schools on the Sunday preceeding graduation. Mr. Donald J. Montague was the guest speaker for the program held in the auditorium. Mr. Montague served as Bethel's first principal. The Reverand Thomas Jones gave the Invocation, followed by a selection by the band. After Mr. Montague's message, the Bruin Singers presented a selection. The Benediction was given by Reverand Mathew Winder.

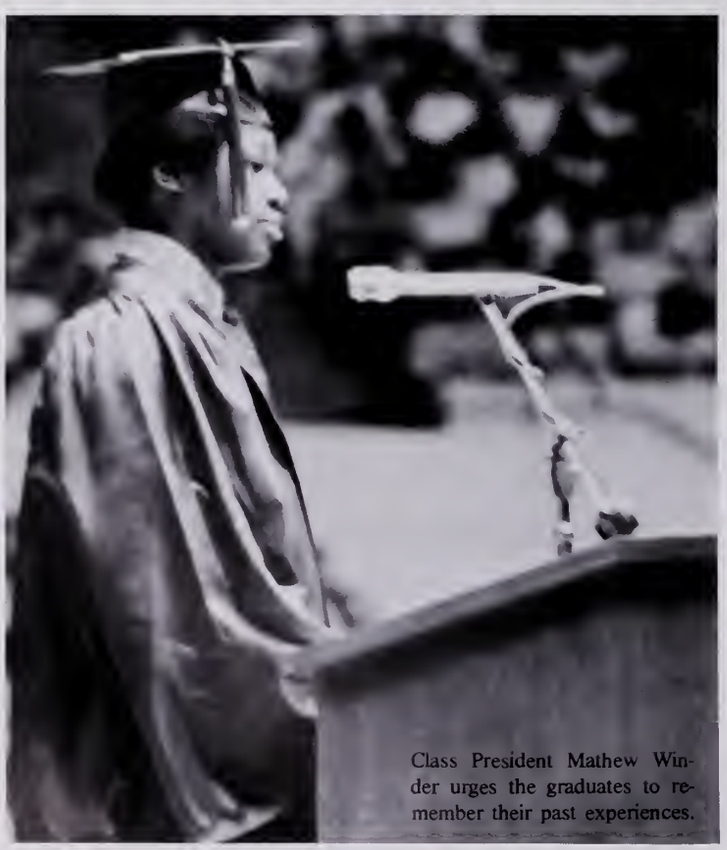
Bishop, James Class Speakers

Graduation excercises were held on June 10 at 8:00 p.m. in the Coliseum. Senior Class President Mathew Winder welcomed the families and guests of the 483 members of the Class of 1976. Following a selection by the band, Thomas James and Randy Bishop presented speeches to their classmates. The two speakers were chosen by the top 5 per cent of the Senior Class. After the diplomas were awarded by Mr. Gillikin, the Alma Mater was played by the band. The graduates recessed only two hours after the excercises had begun.



Class President Mathew Winder urges the graduates to remember their past experiences.

Sophomore Lane Green kicks for the extra point in the Hampton game, as Mike Tyndall holds.

Man has always searched for a way to express himself. A select few choose to express themselves on the athletic fields. The playing fields of Bethel High School have enabled me to enhance my physical abilities, develop coordination, and increase my mental and physical discipline. Most of all, sports permit me to show the type of pride I have. Pride that comes through exerting effort, whether winning or losing — the pride of knowing that you did your best.

WISHBONE

With the defensive team ranked third in the state, the Bruin football squad held their opponents to a total of 42 points. Only 14 points were scored against the defense. With a 7-3 record the team found themselves statistically superior to each opponent.

A team with the highest potential, Coach Kozlowski felt plagued by "an inexperienced offense." Another setback was that our speedy offense was not geared to playing in the rain. Inclement weather was a hindrance throughout the season.

Two All-Americans were named from the Bruin team, Lionel Jordan and Marion Gale. Playing football was, according to Lionel Jordan," a great experience."

BLAST

Delivering a pep talk, Coaches Butler, Araujo, and Kozlowski fire up the team for the second half of the Tabb game.

Compiling a 5-2-1 record, the junior varsity football team was made up of sophomores of varying abilities. Yet together they formed a well-balanced team. The Bruins did not see victory until the third game against Tabb. The most memorable game was with Hampton. Offensively, the Bruins scored once with Glen Harrison eluding tackler after tackler. Dan Farthing intercepted two passes and returned them both for touchdowns. The final score was Bethel 18 — Hampton 12.

Sophomore Benjamin Johnson wards off Tabb tacklers as he races for a first down.

Although the Bruins suffered through a losing season, Ronald Brown, the most outstanding runner, was undefeated in dual meet competition. He placed third in the District, fourth in the Regional, and 17th in the State. Brown's place in the State was the top finish of any runner from the Eastern Region.

The team suffered a setback when junior Kenneth Dunn decided not to compete shortly after the season began. Lack of experience and depth was a constant disadvantage. A ninth grader, Jerome Schiele, competed with the cross-country team.

PRESS

A serious lack of height held the Bruin basketball squad at a disadvantage the entire season and kept them from being a threat for the championship. However, despite the lack of tall men, the outfit hung close to the pacesetters. Then the odds caught up with the group and the taller Hampton and Newport News teams started taking advantage. If Richard Hall, Jerry Holmes, or Robert Hott fell into foul trouble, Howard Mitchell, Oliver Prescott, or Tilghman Williams shouldered the task of replacing them. The hustle from these three was not enough to counter the deficit in height.

Plagued by a lack of agressiveness and a lack of control on the boards, the junior varsity basketball team compiled a season's record below .500. However, outstanding play came from David Johnson, Gregory Blake, and Wayne Stewart. Blake was high scorer with a 12 point average per game. Outstanding rebounder David Johnson pulled down an average of 9.1 rebounds per game and was the second leading scorer. Johnson received the Most Valuable Player award.

SPLASH

With only one month to "get in shape," the swim team experienced a novel season. For the first time men and women practiced and competed simultaneously. The swimming competition was divided into three segments with meets in December, January, and February. The month of January proved the toughest with stiff competition from Lafayette and Kecoughtan. At the district meet in March, the Bruins fared well, placing third. Kevin McGrady and June Harris were named Most Valuable Swimmers for the season. Outstanding class awards were presented to Billy Falconer, Chuck Cunningham, Tevis Hull, and Sandy Brumbaugh.

Again Bruin wrestlers had to settle for a second place behind repeating District champions Menchville. The grapplers compiled a 10-2 record with the losses to Menchville and non-district opponent Cox of Norfolk.

District championships were won by Tony Mann and Danny Schreck. Sophomore Lawrence Bowman placed third in the state and was one of the eighteen wrestlers chosen nationally to travel to Poland to practice with the Polish Olympic team. Sharing honors for the the most pins were Charlie Prevette, Lawrence Bowman, and Tony Mann. Tim Cardwell was named Most Improved Wrestler and Lawrence Bowman Most Valuable.

GRAPPLE

Gaining experience, the junior varsity wrestlers compiled a 10-2 record. The matmen defeated every team in the district except champions Menchville. Like the varsity, the Bruins only loss was to Cox of Norfolk. Keynoted by Coach Lipoli as outstanding wrestlers were Kevin Webb, Pat Cardwell, and Ronnie Spruill. With the exception of one senior, the gymnastics team was comprised of only beginners. This fact contributes to the importance of the team's placing second in their tri-meets. Another strike against the young women was that they were the smallest team in the district.

Senior Natasha Graves was voted Best All-Around and Pam Perry Most Improved. Commented Coach Covas, "Each gymnast worked hard. We were in a building stage."

Junior Marion Gale and junior David Washington run hurdles against Warwick and Denbigh.

Highlighting the indoor track season was a victory in the city meet and a runner-up finish in the State meet. Outstanding times were consistently turned in by Ronald Brown who ran the fastest time in the nation in the 1000 yard run with a 2:11.6. The mile relay and 880 relay teams also received national honors by recording the second fastest times in both events. Members of the mile relay team were David Washington, Arthur Armistead, Darryl Patterson, and Whitney Powell. The 880 team was composed of Eric Brown, Eugene Scott, Darryl Patterson, and Whitney Powell.

In the state meet only a slip on the lead-off leg of the mile relay prevented Bethel from becoming state champions. The Bruins finished second to Menchville and Thomas Edison. One point separated first and second places.

HANDOFF

Compiling a 2-5 season's record, the women's track team participated in four invitational meets in addition to their regular district competition. The team travelled to Knoxville, Tennessee for the Tennessee Volunteer meet and to Williamsburg for the Colonial Relays. On the Peninsula, the young women saw action in the Peninsula Relays and the Hampton Institute Relays.

STRIKE 3

A lack of consistency in fielding and pitching hindered the varsity baseball team. However, when the team put it together, they won in style. The Bruins defeated district kingpin Menchville in both outings. They were the only squad to accomplish the feat. A few season-ending highlights added to the year. The key duo of Larry Maloney and Mike Tyndall were named first team All-District at shortstop and second base respectively. Tyndall also won the district batting crown with a .467 average. Maloney finished third at .404.

Although the junior varsity baseball team was unbeaten on the field, they had to forfeit their first seven games. Two players were practicing at the same time with Senior League teams, which is against VHSL rules. Therefore, the Bruins could not rightfully claim the district championship.

Joey Sparrow led the batters with a .447. Leading pitcher Brent Bartley had 51 strike outs and .54 ERA. The team batting average was .290 with 105 runs scored. The Bruins gave up only 31 runs. Their fielding average was .904.

With five of the top six players on the team sophomores, the Bruin net men lacked experience. The team posted a winning season despite its youth. Sophomores Danny Peters and David Carmines both gave strong performances with 8-3 season records. With a fourth place finish in the district, the team lost only one player, senior Robert Carmines.

Danny Peters was chosen Most Valuable Player and David Carmines Most Improved. The Sportsmanship award went to David Bellamy.

VOLLEY

For the first time Bethel had an exclusively female tennis team. Few, if any, of the young women had ever faced serious competition of the caliber of their opponents. Their toughest competition came from Ferguson and Hampton, followed by Pembroke and Lafayette. The team suffered from a basic lack of confidence.

Faced with inadequate facilities, the young women performed well with what they had, according to their coach. Ms. Ottaway commended the team for sincerity, loyalty, and labor.

Chosen by her teammates, Diana Scher was voted Most Valuable Player. Mellonie Wise was chosen Most Improved by her coach.

At the beginning of the season, all of Bethel's golfers reported to the Hampton Golf Course to win a spot on the Bruin golf team. Only a dozen played well enough to do so. These twelve young men were to face the task of trying to keep up the winning tradition. The golfers came through in excellent form. The team finished third in the district competition, second in the district tournament, and eighth in the regional tournament. The team also posted the lowest score in the district. Ricky Wilmouth, Mike Bryant, David Crumpler, and Dale Crumpler posted a 286, shooting 70-71-72-73 respectively. At the end of the season Ricky Wilmouth was presented the Most Valuable Golfer award.

As Col. Bruger observes, JROTC cadets pass in revue.

I once had the idea that school was just a place where you learned the three r's. Then, I discovered that there was more. School is full of student-governed organizatons, some small and some large. All filled with people like myself, some very interesting who enjoy doing helpful things in their free time.

I wised up and joined the Key Club, Spanish Club, and tennis team. All I needed was the ambition.

Performance

All-City Concerts and the Christmas assembly were only three of the performances in which the A'Cappella and Ensemble choirs were involved. They also performed a Christmas Cantata at Bethany Methodist Church which in turn donated $111.85 on behalf of the Choral Department to the Christmas fund for the Sarah Bonwell Hudgins Center.

Twenty-eight students were chosen for Regional Chorus which met in Williamsburg in the winter. Five of those students went on to participate in All-State Chorus which performed at Hampton High School in May. Those students were Marcia Gray, Wanda Bristow, John Hutcheson, Tammy Simmons and Frank O'Neal.

Composed of 82 members, including the majorettes, the Marching Band appeared at all home football games and the annual Phoebus Day Parade. A smaller group, the Pep Band, performed at away games.

For the first time the band had its own Band-Parent Organization. Composed of 20 members, they supported the band in any way possible. Class socks and candy were sold to raise funds.

The Concert Band held its annual Winter and Spring Concerts. Membes also appeared in the All-City Band in December. Twenty-five students belonged to the All-City Senior Band. Seniors Bill Robinson and John Deavers were honored by the Virginia Bicentennial Band.

Provoking the Spanish Club's entry in the Homecoming Parade is Faye N[illegible].

Enthusiasm was the key force that motivated the German Club. The club members participated in the school-wide candy sales. A party was held at the home of their sponsor, Mr. Araujo. Bowling, skating and eating pizza were favorite activities of the German Club members. They attribute much of their success to the involvement of their sponsor.

Dinner was served at the home of sponsor Mrs. Welch to initiate the school year for the French Club. The group consisted of fourteen members. During Foreign Language Week French students sang at Coliseum Mall. At the end of the year a picnic was held to cement the friendships among club members.

Interest in Spain and the Spanish culture was shared by Spanish Club members. Even though the study of Spanish was not a prerequisite for membership, most students had taken at least one year. The weekly meetings were conducted in English so everyone could participate.

Early in October, the club entered a car in the Homecoming Parade. Decorated as a bull, the car was awarded second place. Darlene Capps was sponsored by the Spanish Club in the Miss BHS Pageant. The night before taco sales were held, the members got together and made the tacos so that they would be fresh for the next day.

Dressed in togas, the Latin Club members attended the Latin Banquet held at Phoebus High School. Bethel had the greatest number of students in attendance at the city-wide gathering.

Traditional Roman food was served and "chariot races" in boxes were held. During National Education Week, students participated in a Parade of gods and goddesses at Coliseum Mall.

Projection

Small but active, the Audio-Visual Club was taught the operation of all A.V. equipment. The major activity of the club was the taping of sporting events and plays.

Members visited WVEC-TV and Radio in Hampton. They saw how a studio is set up, how the cameras operate, and how to create some special effects. Meeting celebrity "Sandy the Clown" was the highlight of the trip.

Learning the techniques of running a library, Library Club members carded, shelved and stamped books. Selling doughnuts for the Sarah Hudgins Christmas fund, supporting National Library Week, and sponsoring a student for Boys-Girls State were the ways the Library Club members were involved in school activities. Trips were taken to Richmond to see the play Emperor Jones, and to New York.

The Debate Team participated in four invitationals against Tabb, Kecoughtan, Warwick, and Manchester High School in Richmond. Bethel and Kecoughtan worked together on a demonstration debate at the Coliseum Mall.

Competing in the Peninsula High School Chess League, the chess team won all matches for a 10-0 record, capturing the league title.

Members were Joel Arrington, David Porter, Mike Kassel, Glen James, Barry Spigel, Mike Reynolds, and Leon Owens.

Advisor Mr. Maring stated, "Four of our five players were seniors. We will miss them."

Employment

Two first place awards and three second places were presented to the Distributive Education Cooperative Association at the District Leadership Conference at Christopher Newport College. The members who were preparing for careers in the business field entertained their employees at the annual banquet. A Bosses' Breakfast was given by DECA at the Hampton House Restaurant. For the entertainment of the faculty, a Christmas Open House was planned.

DECA members were also involved in recreational activities. Softball, bowling, and basketball tournaments were held. To culminate their activities DECA enjoyed a picnic.

Entertainment for the children of the Sarah Bonwell Hudgins Center was provided by the Vocational Industrial Club of America on Valentine's Day. VICA also supported Homecoming festivities by decorating a car for the parade. Continuing their involvement in school activities the club sponsored a contestant in the Miss BHS pageant. Widening their interests, VICA set up a booth at the Hampton Fair.

District competition was held at Phoebus High School and the State contest was in Roanoke. Members attended the Virginia State School Career Day and the Virginia Beach District Officers Fall Rally. For relaxation VICA enjoyed a swimming party, a picnic, and a trip to the Norfolk Vo-Tech.

Leadership

At the Hampton Fair Day, Linda Day explains the advances made in business equipment to an interested spectator as Donna Simmons, Cathy Alligood, and Karen Keeter observe.

Crippled children and the March of Dimes was a concern of the Future Business Leaders of America. FBLA members collected money outside of the Omni Hotel in Norfolk and presented their donation to representatives from the March of Dimes telerama. A spaghetti dinner and a breakfast at the Holiday Inn were held. Sixty of the sixty-four members attended the breakfast which was the most well-supported activity of the year.

An interest in teaching as a profession unified the Future Teachers of America. Members devoted their time to planning the Teacher of the Year election. A preliminary voting was held to determine the six most popular teachers. Final elections were conducted in April, Teaching Career Month. Mr. Cutler was chosen Teacher of the Year. A luncheon was served to the administrators and six finalists by the FTA.

Creativity

"Although we were hindered by low attendance at the after-school meetings, the Industrial Arts Club was still active," said Mr. Benson, sponsor. The members participated in exhibitions and a workshop at Old Dominion University for Leadership Development. Officers attended seminars to further acquaint themselves with parliamentary procedures.

Trick or Treat bags for the children at the Virginia School for the Deaf and Blind were made by the Future Homemakers of America. Other philanthropic activities in which the FHA was involved were the Baptist Orphanage and the adoption of a needy family at Thanksgiving.

Motivation

Standing at attention, Debbie McAbee awaits the playing of the Alma Mater.

Senior Lisa Foster believed that the cheerleaders purpose was "to encourage students to raise spirit in school."

Before school opened the cheerleaders participated in a cheering camp at Longwood College in Farmville, Virginia where they learned new cheers. The J.V. squad was awarded a first place trophy for their performance of the camp cheer and an original cheer.

Participating in pep rallies with the entire school body provided an opportunity for the cheerleaders to spark the interest and enthusiasm needed by the teams.

Service

Baby Bruins and bunnies made by the Keyettes were sold to raise money to support projects. Cleaning the parking lot, ushering at the Miss BHS pageant and at graduation, and selling concessions at basketball games were ways chosen by the young women to serve their school.

A Kidnap Breakfast was held to initiate new members. Students who had been selected for membership were taken by surprise from their homes. A spring banquet and a Founders' Day breakfast were enjoyed by the Keyettes.

Because of good participation from the members, the Key Club achieved more than its main function of service to the school. The Key Club reached out into the community, holding bingo parties at the Veterans Hospital and parties for underpriviledged kindergarten children. Such activities as collecting for charities and clean up programs rounded out their projects.

Enlightment

A handful of hardworking students and one English teacher banded together one autumn afternoon for the purpose of creating an addition to Bethel's news media. Naive and inexperienced, they proceeded in the next nine months to produce a newsmagazine worthy of the Bethel name.

The Bethel Review staff, with cooperation from FBLA typists and Mr. Tylavsky, salesperson par excellance, cranked out issue upon issue — never without a hitch — but always consistantly.

It was a measure of the staff's worth that, starting with no experience, they put out a product of which they were proud.

Staff members of The Troubador began working early in the year to organize the publishing of the literary magazine. Information was distributed to music, art, and English teachers to urge them to have students with special writing and drawing skills submit material for consideration. Patrons were solicited and candy bars were sold at Christmas to help cut the printing costs. As the deadline drew near, staff members selected the material to be included in the magazine and began designing the layouts. In April, The Troubador was distributed to the patrons and students who had placed advance orders.

Entertainment

Activity was the big word for the Drama Club. Involvement was high and participation was nearly one hundred percent. The club presented two full length plays "Bad Seed" and "Up the Down Staircase." Appealing to audiences of 700 every night, both productions enjoyed record-breaking crowds. The annual patron drive was conducted to help finance the productions.

In May drama students travelled to New York City. They dined at Sardi's and enjoyed the plays on Broadway. The climax of their activities was the Awards Banquet. The best Actor/Actress, Student Director, Versatile Male/Female, and Best Thespian awards were voted by the club.

An honorary organization, the International Thespian Society requires that a drama student acquire 250 hours of work in drama before he may be considered for membership. For every 10 hours above the first 250, a student gets a star. At 600 hours, a member becomes an "Honor Thespian," which is the highest honor one can attain.

Thespian troupe 290 directed the Christmas skits with assistance from Drama Club members. New inductees were required to take a test, put on a skit, and "beautify" the auditorium before their induction at the Drama Club Banquet.

Movement

"Our best and most profitable year!" exclaimed Mrs. Pope when evaluating Modern Dance. One reason this statement was true was because the young women and men worked harder than ever, practicing three hours a day, six days a week.

A dance workshop was held at Jefferson Davis Junior High School. Three recitals with Bicentennial themes were presented at Cooper, Philipps, and Magruder Elementary Schools. The troupe travelled to Langley Air Force Base, Norfolk State College, Cristopher Newport College and the Virginia School for the Deaf and Blind.

Adding sparkle and spirit to games and pep rallies, the majorette squad was led by squad-head Sherry Hinnant and co-head Denise Wilson. The majorettes met twice a week during the summer for practice, and they attended a summer camp at Hampton High School. As a recreational break, they enjoyed a picnic at Newport News Park.

As the year wore on problems developed for the squad and the majorettes were not able to function as effectively as the squad had hoped. The most important factor in group success, according to sponsor Mrs. Goodwin, was "discipline, but more importantly self-discipline."

Technology

"Good morning and welcome to the Bruin Broadcasting Company." This statement was heard throughout the year on WVEC radio as the Bruin Broadcasting Company informed listeners of the activities at Bethel. The BBC presented the total picture with interviews with athletes and features on performing groups and clubs. Announcer Jonathan Washington stated, "I really learned a lot and gained quite a bit of broadcasting experience."

Rewinding the tape, Jenny McKinney prepares to listen to an interview.

Sponsoring the Fall and Spring Road Rallies and the spring camping trip gave the Science-Math Club the opportunity to work together on weekends as well as school days. Members enjoyed a spaghetti dinner at the home of Cindy Sleeper. During National Education Week the club set up a booth at Coliseum Mall. Participation dropped and club member Jerome Thomas believed that "the club had a good foundation and could have been built up."

Preparing to distribute candy to NHS members, Thomas James and Randy Fisher collect their allotment.

Thomas James was able to travel to Turkey during the summer because of the efforts of the American Field Service. "Visiting the country was a great experience," Thomas said.

AFS sponsored their first dinner membership drive. Membership increased due to this drive conducted in October. Members work on Tuesday and Thursday selling coffee and baked goods to the Thomas Nelson Community College students attending classes at Bethel.

Lack of student participation was a deterrent to the National Honor Society. President Thomas James stated, "The people really were not motivated." Senior Jimmy Adams added, "It was really hard for us to get together. It seemed that everyone was involved with so many other activities." The NHS members took part in the school-wide candy sale.

Discipline

With an enrollment of 180 cadets, the Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps supported school functions by marching at football games. Drill teams performed at halftime during Homecoming and the Hampton game. The Brigade marched in local parades, including the Phoebus Day Parade.

Field trips to Forts Eustis and Lee in Virginia and Fort Bragg in North Carolina provided an insight to the military. Drill Teams won acclaim in competition with the Female Team winning first place award at the Hampton Institute ROTC Day. The annual Army Inspection went exceedingly well, according to Col. Bruger. Highlight of the year for the cadets was the Military Ball held at Langley Air Force Base Officers Club.

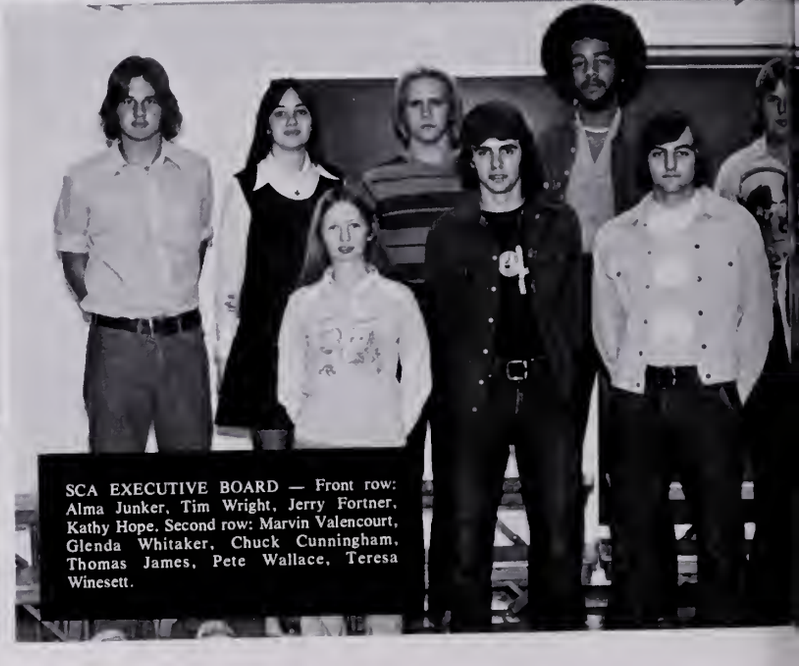
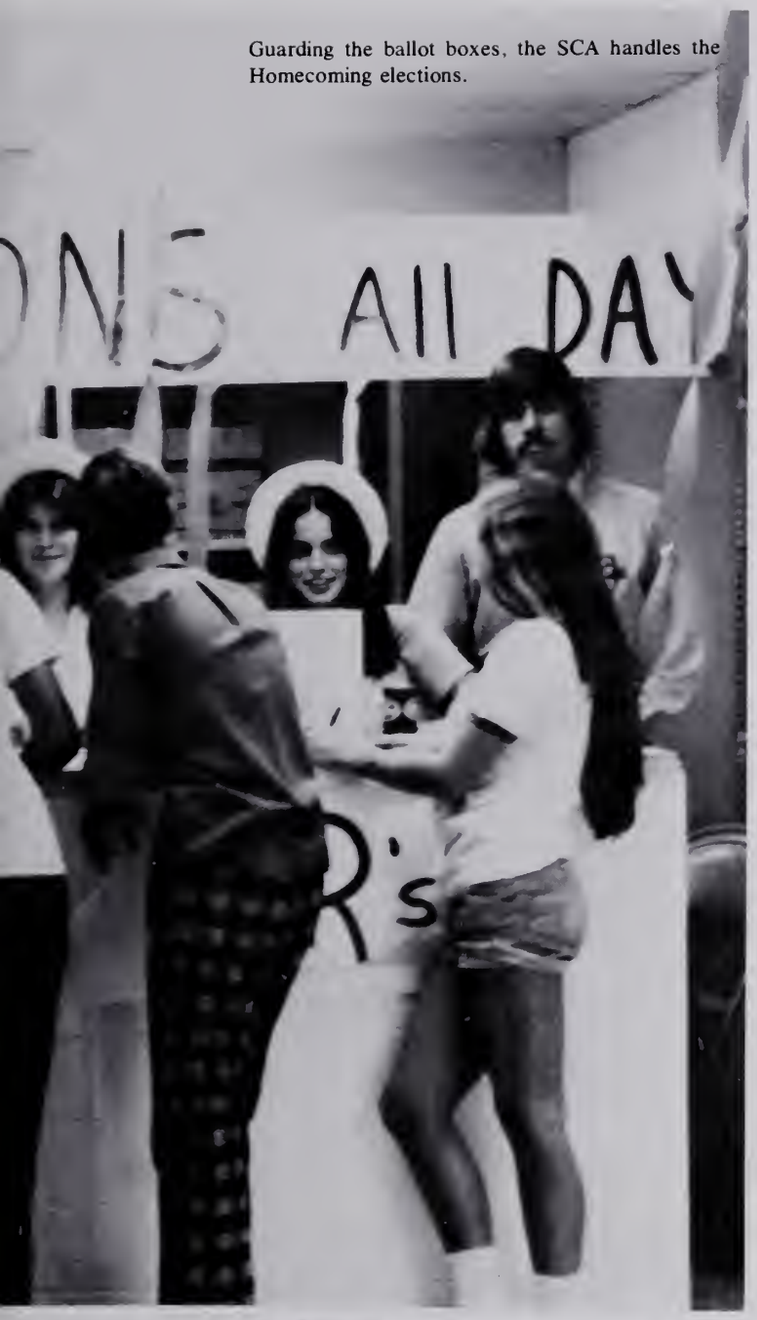
President Alma Junker listens attentively at the city-wide SCA workshop.



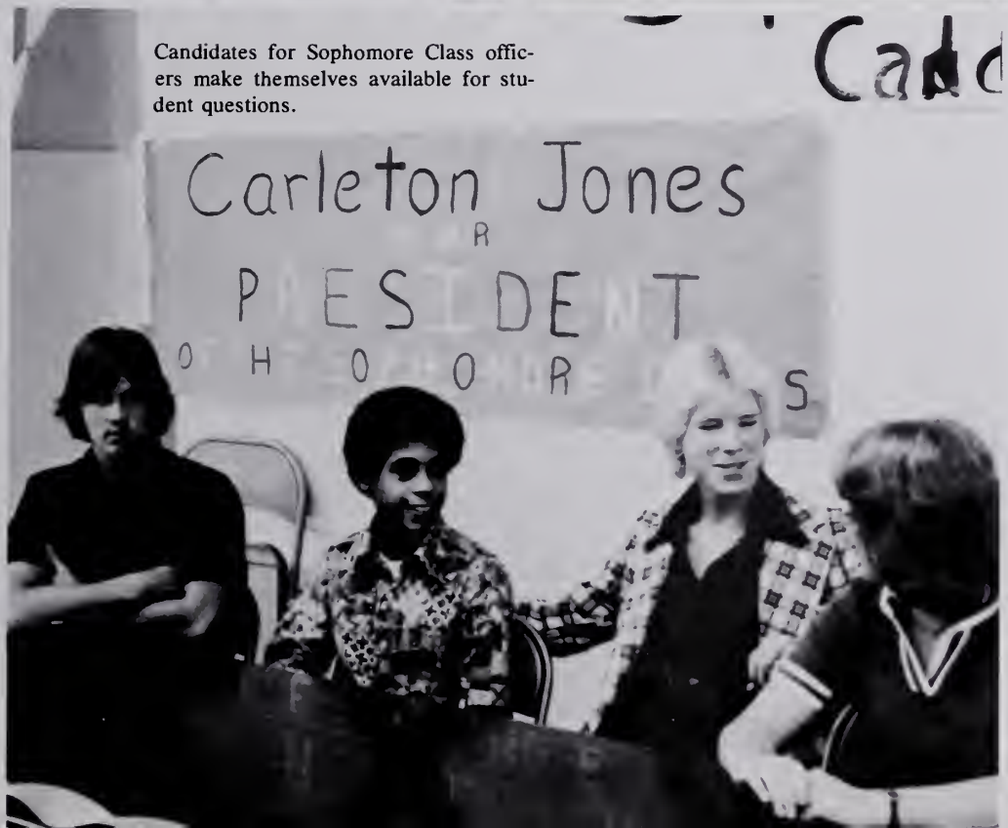
SCA EXECUTIVE BOARD — Front row: Alma Junker, Tim Wright, Jerry Fortner, Kathy Hope. Second row: Marvin Valencourt, Glenda Whitaker, Chuck Cunningham, Thomas James, Pete Wallace, Teresa Winesett.

Involvement



Guarding the ballot boxes, the SCA handles the Homecoming elections.

Beginning with the orientation ceremony for sophomores, the Student Cooperative Association continued striving for the success with which they became associated. A medium for students and faculty to communicate, the SCA governed student activities. Spirit Week, Homecoming, the Christmas Holly Ball, the Christmas Project and assembly for Sarah Bonwell Hudgins, and the Miss BHS Pageant were the major projects undertaken by the SCA. Sponsor Mr. Tylavsky stated that the SCA had "good officers who turned out a good Homecoming and a good Miss BHS Pageant. "On the whole, I think that we met all of the important goals, but the SCA lacked a very important and necessary part — student involvement by and through the SCA representatives."



Candidates for Sophomore Class officers make themselves available for student questions.

Preservation

Enthusiastic and eager, the Ursa Major staff was composed entirely of novices. Yet their desire to work hard and put out a yearbook they could be proud of was evident immediately. Beginning with the selling of ads and the designing of the cover, the staff worked after school as well as on the week-ends until the last material was sent to the publisher during the summer.

The 1976 edition of Ursa Major was designed by Kenny Cook. The cover and all layouts were his creations. John Hutcheson did the graphic work and set the headlines. Photographer for the yearbook was Cary Spangler.

Artist Kenny Cook draws just one of the over 100 layouts that he designed for the yearbook.

Typing sports copy, Trina Ford tries not to make any errors.

Graphics man John Hutcheson places the narrow tape on the art board for the Ursa Major layout.

In the past three years we have accomplished many things: our first victory over Hampton, the State AAA football championship, the Christmas gift to Sarah Hudgins, and our Homecoming victory. These three years have been the greatest thrill of my life. I will always remember my wonderful friends and the way my teachers cared enough to make me apply myself.

Involved!

Coming back to school held more in store for me than I though it would. I am SCA special events chairman and this is a very involving job. Most of my spare time is taken up with homecoming, Christmas projects, and school activities. Other than SCA work my next most important job in school is yearbook. I have had to spend a lot of my afternoons selling ads. I anticipate that the work will get harder as the year goes on. Being involved means work, but the outcome is worth the input.

Nearing the End . . .

Here I sit in the solitude of my own subconscious, thinking back to the day when it all began, twelve years ago. All that remains of that day is a hazy image of a little girl, with tears in her eyes, facing a strange, new, and unexplored world of seemingly monstrous buildings containing a maze of corridors and doors. Gradually, the tearful face fades and becomes a happy image, surrounded by other smiling faces. Time passes, the scenes change, there are new faces and new surroundings. The once frightened child who was only able to print her name, is now hard at work writing her 8-year-old autobiography in her neatest cursive handwriting. Suddenly, she is no longer the tiny, shy child of twelve years before, she is on the brink of adulthood. She has reached the ultimate goal, the goal every child dreams of but does not truly understand, she is a Senior! Somehow, through those twelve years of tears, work, disappointments, and boredom, I wonder . . . Why does it have to end so soon?

Special!

Homecoming is a special game for seniors and those good-looking girls who are in the Homecoming Court. A special time for a guy who buys his girlfriend a flower and is with her during the game and everybody notices you and says "Hey, isn't he sweet."

Not only is it special for a guy and girl, but for those girls of the Homecoming Court who are so tense and nervous and say, "No I am not going to win; I am not pretty enough." When halftime gets there, the truth will be known. Win or lose they all are very pretty and should win.

Pucks Flying

If you've ever been to a hockey game, whether it was being played by our Hampton Gulls or any other team, you probably enjoyed it. But did you realize all the work involved? Sure, it takes practice and perseverence to coordinate mind and body among the team members, but that is only on the surface.

Behind every team there is a sort of central force that gets the ball rolling, or the puck flying, as the case may be. This stimulus is the Booster Club.

Angela Cooper, a Bethel senior, is on the Executive Board of this organization. They throw birthday parties for the team members and have seasonal get-togethers, such as Christmas Parties.

Angela, youth coordinator for the team, is in charge of fund raising activities. She is the initiator of car washes, parties, and the selling of programs. Her other activities include working at the Souvenir Booth, and helping plan for the painting of the colorful signs that surround the ice at each game. The little quips on each sign range from "Hampton, Home of Hockey" to "We love our Gulls, we think they're nice. So don't throw*!?# on our Gulls' ice."

Angela adds, "Being on the Executive Board has given me a great number of opportunities, especially to work with the players and get hockey off the ground in Hampton."

Torture in 120

Lunch is over. We run to our lockers and grab the two large textbooks and our very large notebooks. We rush past the guidance and attendance offices. Phew! Here we are, room 120. Taking a few brisk moments to study, we wonder why we must be tortured this way. The papers are passed out and, after an hour of mind-searching, we turn in the test. We have journeyed through a muddle of striated muscle tissue, a loose femur humerus, skull and crossbones of the skeleton, the fetal pig's intestinal tract, genetic tracing for a family of nine children, and the DNA model.

We have Mrs. Trent to thank for guiding us. She makes physiology interesting and challenging. I open my report card. It's an A! I actually did it! Now we can go on to become doctors, vets, and . . . accupuncture specialists.

At First . . .

Being a senior is a really great feeling especially when you first become one. You get the feeling that your are it, number one, until you find out how expensive it is to be a senior.

You have to buy your ring, your pictures, cap and gown, and announcements of your graduation. This is just a part of it. You really go into the hole when the prom comes.

First you gotta rent your tux. Then you have to buy your tickets for the prom. You have to take your date to a fancy restaurant plus you have to buy her a corsage.

At the end of it all, when you're sitting in the Coliseum waiting for them to call your name to come up and get your diploma, you think back and you ask yourself if it was all worth it. The answer is yes. No matter how many times you might have thought that it wasn't.

Dear Sirs:

What memories I will have of 1976, my senior year. Transciption, dictation, timed writings . . . wow, what memories! Participating in the C.O.E. program has been the most memorable. With great help from Mrs. Wynder, I learned how to compete in the business world as a clerk-typist. Achieving true on-the-job experience that will ready me for my life after high school, and getting paid for it!

C.O.E. taught me to apply the English, math, and business that all of my teachers at Bethel have tried so hard to cram into my head.

It was not only work, but fun learning to appreciate and help others.

Being on Top

Being on top is not always easy. With success comes many pressures and with the pressures comes the need to escape.

Being one of the top football players in the state is no exception and Marion Gale is one of those players. Although he was handicapped with a strained Achilles' tendon, his senior season was one of his best. "Football is everything to me," said Marion. He has a dream, to one day be a professional football player. He feels he has a long way to go, yet he has obtained a scholarship from N.C. State. Marion said he wanted a good education first and then he would get into football.

"When you are on top people expect you to be on top all of the time," he said. To escape from the pressure to remain successful, Marion works on drawings or paintings. That is how he gets away from it all, by putting his true feelings down on paper. On March 21, Marion won second place in the art category of Omega Psi Phi's talent search. "That's the first time I've ever won anything for my drawings," he said with a smile. He keeps his art work in his room at home, and that room is full of feeling.

A New Direction

It seems you've spent all your life in the security of school not realizing what's behind those blue doors. The thought of graduating scares some and yet excites others. It gives you a place to step up from toward the goals that you have set. Those who have gone through school not preparing for their future may find it hard living and coping with our society. This is the time when you realize that we all are not going in the same direction any more. Individual interests and ambitions take over. Your sense of responsibility and self-determination are measured from here on because it's all up to you now.

Endless Enigma

Being involved in sports at Bethel has become a major part of my life. On August 10, the long, grueling football practices began. Day in and day out, the same routine is followed: practice, practice, practice, game, practice, practice, practice, game. It seems like an eternity of practice. When the football season finally ends, winter rolls around and its time for indoor track. Indoor track in actuality, is nothing more than a training program for the next year's football team. You lift weights every day for three months and then up pops outdoor track. Weight lifting for football season is again stressed but for this team you get to carry hurdles out to the track, a tedious chore. When summer gets here, it's back to the weight room. Every night, all summer we lift and run to get in shape. The same cycle starts again.

This endless enigma is not all bad. For instance the state championship in football in '74 relieved some of the pain of the long season. Track was fun and the meets were exciting. Summer was not totally tormenting. We did get weekends off.

Giving of Life

To me the most exciting thing in the world is my mare Sey-Naff, due to foal in April. Having an animal to care for and love provides the main joy in my life. In 1974, Sey-Naff gave birth to twins both of which died. That was the most tragic thing that I had ever experienced. The giving of life is the greatest pleasure of owning a horse.

On The Air

A certain excitement makes a daytime football game different from a night game. Put it on TV and place yourself in the telecaster's booth on a microphone and the whole game becomes too exciting for words.

I remember vividly the various emotions I felt. When I was explained the details of my job, I was thrilled over the amount of work.

About an hour before we went on, David Sullivan, the play-by-play man from TV 10, briefed me. Finally, with just thirty seconds to go the lump that haunts many who speak in public made its presence felt in my throat. I heard David ask my pre-game opinion and, miraculously, the words just flowed out of my mouth.

We Did It!

Preparing my trick squad of six girls including myself is only one half of an accomplishment. The other half is bribing them anyway I can to get them to forget their nervousness and enter the football field for our halftime debut performance of a trick drill routine.

I sensed a great deal of tension and pressure as I lined them up making sure we all had correct spacing so we wouldn't trample over each other and fall down in front of 6,000 people. I also had to keep pounding into their heads that if they forgot the routine I'd kill them. As I took my post I drew a complete blank, asking myself "What am I doing? Get me out of here!" It was too late. The male drill team commander drew his saber which in turn cued Mr. Croft, announcing the female squad and their commander. Now it was my turn. I had to do it. "Squad Forrr-ward March!"

Running is something that's very special. A person can feel superior when he wins because he's doing something that someone else can't do. While a person is running, the crowd can really motivate him. This makes him realize that there's someone there who is concerned about how well he's doing. Golliwhopin

"Golliwhopin! Story begin!" These are the opening lines of a Bicentennial play for children entitled "GOLLIWHOPPERS!" that was presented during the summer of 1975. Seniors Alan Richardson and Ann Schy were part of the cast of seven.

Structured similar to "GODSPELL," the play was presented every Sunday at Mill Point in downtown Hampton.

The play dealt with four folk tales glorifying America's heritage. When asked how they got involved with the show, both Ann and Alan had identical responses. Ann said, "I went to tryouts and was told that I would be notified if I made it." Alan echoed that he went to the Peninsula Community Theater, tried out, and made it.

The play was sponsored by the PCT and the Hampton Association for the Arts and Humanities with a grant from the Federal government.

Did they enjoy doing the show? Both Ann and Alan responded unequivocally "Yes!" Alan Richardson

A wandering mind plagues Alan Richardson during play rehearsal.

Applause

The thrill of a show, the applause at the final curtain and the closeness that grows between people, that's why I joined drama. It is a real learning experience to work with a show from a read through to the laughter and tears at a cast party. I'd never change a single minute I have had in that auditorium for anything. I've made new friends and done things that only drama could ever give me the chance to do . . . the chance to be someone else for a few hours and to experience life as I believe the character would.

Empty Pockets

"Hey, you got a dime I can borrow? Seniors are selling doughnuts."

These words rang familiar to many ears. For the month of October, every Thursday meant cupcakes, cookies, brownies, doughnuts and empty pockets as seniors devoted their lunch time to raising money for their class. But as the weeks progressed, participation in the bake sales declined. The lack of participation put an end to the sales and an end to the chance for seniors to raise money.

As a result, the seniors ended up having to pay for prom invitations and their trip to Busch Gardens because the attempt to raise funds was a flop

Disappointment

I was let down by the dance. I worked hard trying to talk about the dance enough so people would come and support the Senior Class.

The problem was that there wasn't enough interest on the part of the seniors to get it all rolling. If the seniors would support the class, things would be alot better. I was depending on this dance, and it didn't bring in as much money as I wanted. We were trying to help the seniors.

Ecstasy

"Congratulations! Congratulations!" Oh, those words were music to my ears on Friday night, January 16. People were pouring from everywhere, my parents, friends, Mr. Gillikin, everybody. Little did they know the things that were going through my head. I just couldn't believe that I, the girl that didn't eat dinner that night and was as hungry as a bear, had won Miss B.H.S.

That night was a mixture of many emotions. The first of which was anxiety. Secondly, I was afraid as I proceeded to venture out onto the stage. I felt ecstasy as Dick Lamb announced "Kim Cooper, Miss B.H.S. '76."

The Racer's Edge

What do you think of when you hear the names Mario Andreti . . . Bobby Unser . . . Richard Petty . . . Mike McVaugh: Car racing, right?

Mike isn't out in the line up at Indianapolis 500 but in drag racing he's right up front.

Settling down in his blue-gray Nova, Mike prepares to race time. When the Christmas tree turns green, he and one other competator are off down the quarter-mile straightaway. Each of them hope to clock in somewhere around 14 or 15 seconds.

There are two such raceways in Virginia, one in Richmond, and one in Suffolk. The races aren't adorned with fancy names but they are just as offical as some that are.

Although Chevrolets are the most popular cars being used in drag racing, Mike adds a line that leaves the winning up to anyone in any car, "Cars will fool you."

A Need to Express

Some people paint. Some sing. Others have certain hobbies, jobs, and interests through which they express their creativity. Teresa Dewey has found herself in writing songs. "I write music because I feel the need to express my feelings," says Teresa. When writing her music, she begins because she is "inspired to write at that time; it comes naturally."

Certain kinds of songs evoke different feelings. Teresa adds, "Like writing a love song, it's a relief to express your thoughts because you can tell someone something in a song which you cannot say with simple words."

Teresa began writing songs in the fall of 1973. This led to her receiving a copyright for one of her pieces in August, 1975. Teresa gives her brother the credit for being her motivating force. "He was my inspiration for everything I ever did in music."

Seeing someone writing and creating from her heart is inspiring.

Acceptance

Why is it that I feel I'm going down a hallway the wrong way when there's only one way to go? How do I come to be a part of this school? Having come from a smaller and less equiped school I have found things different. It takes awhile to break-in and be a part of it all. Getting involved in a few activities helps, but a 30 minute lunch just isn't enough. Maybe if I go to all the football games someone will notice me. I could talk in class, but teachers don't appreciate that — I guess you can't win them all!

All I can do is be me. Being myself is all I have to offer. I hope they accept me. I guess it all boils down to starting again and making new friends. Here I go again! Hi! My name's Debbie . . .

March 5, Ring Day!

March 5. Ring Day. I got out of bed at 6:30 so I could get to school early enough to get my ring before first period began. I arrived at school before 7:30, just in time to see 150 other juniors already there. I took my place in line, which happened to be several hundred feet from the bookstore. After an hour of standing in line, I could almost see the bookstore. The bell rang and many people went to class. The line moved considerably. Fifteen minutes later I was in front of the counter, waiting for the magic moment when I would receive my ring. Just my luck! It's too small!

Modeling... Caring...

Amateur modeling offers a means of community involvement and a form of self-expression for three members of the Junior Class. Denise Blake, Michelle Boone, and Alva Cooper all agree that modeling has been beneficial.

Denise and Alva, who model for the Community Ambassadors of Rices-Nachman's, consider the community projects more rewarding than the modeling.

Michelle is also enthusiastic about community projects. She reveals that her most thrilling experience occurred several months ago when we did a fashion show at the Virginia State School for the Deaf and Blind. After the show we taught the kids some of the techniques we had used. I really enjoyed being with those kids."

Of course the young ladies have received personal rewards too. Among them confidence, poise, and self-improvement rank the highest.

It's Terrible, but Truthful!

On our final test in Gardening for Fun, an in depth look at epicotyls, hypocotyls and cotyledons, the question "What have you gained from this course?" stared me in the face. Reflecting on previous days in class I knew the answer immediately.

"I have learned and perfected the fine art of throwing paper airplane notes, observed and deciphered that 1 finger means A, 2 fingers B, and so on, and last but not least, I learned how to sleep unnoticed during those unbelievably boring films."

It's terrible, but truthful.

Memories Linger...

When I took my jacket out of the closet and shook it and some confetti fell out, I realized that an exciting football season had come to an end. It saddens me when the memories of the season reflect in my mind.

Who could ever forget the Friday nights, the friends, the beer, the pizza, and the winning touchdown. All of these memories will linger in my mind forever; well, maybe at least until next football season anyhow.

Here we go again! I feel like a fugative rushing from class to the car after the lunch bell rings. Well we made it. Hurry, get in. Synchronize your timepieces. Step on the accelerator. Let's go before everyone beats us to McDonald's. Whew, finally made it. Standing in line so long that we have to choke down our food. Hurry, 10 minutes to get back to school. Wait, there's Mr. Croft. Everyone out the door on the other side. Hurry! Back in the van. Let's go! Everyone duck. Not you! You've got to drive. Step on it. Class starts in 3 minutes. Don't carry the evidence in school. Throw it away! Whew, back in class safely! Oh no! My books are in the car.

Dance, Ballerina, Dance!

One Bruin junior has a hobby different from most. Michelle Cawthorn is a ballerina. She has been dancing for the Peninsula Civic Ballet for the past 7 years. Approximately 30 other dancers work for the Ballet.

Michelle's dancing requires over 25 hours of practice a week. In 1975, she was the lead dancer in the Ballet's Christmas production of THE NUTCRACKER SUITE. Through her rigorous training, Michelle says that she has developed self-determination and poise.

Would Michelle recommend ballet for everyone? She answered, "To accomplish anything in ballet, the person really has to be interested in it. If you aren't interested, you won't be able to handle all of the practice."

The clinic's prophecy of the Hampton-Bethel game did not hold true.

That Magic Night

Modeling, talent, applause were part of the experience of being in the Miss B.H.S. Pageant. Days of practicing, walking, standing, and performing were all jumbled in my mind as the curtain opened on that magic night and it was my turn to walk in front of all those people! The thrill of being a part of it was exciting and special.

One of the best memories was making friends with other girls experiencing the same thrills and anxieties. After the curtains closed and the pageant was a memory, the friendships lasted and made all the effort and work worthwhile.

In Motion

Always moving . . . the Friday night football games . . . the late Sunday night homework. Helping others . . . competing . . . elections. Study, study, study . . . pop quizes . . . getting report cards . . . taking them home . . . restriction . . . no dates . . . and by the way, this chair's too small. These are the thoughts transmitted from the so-called prison cells, better known as school.

David Carmines

During the Ferguson pep rally, Captain Jill Taylor introduces the JV cheerleaders.

On Target

To some, school is little more than a hassle or a play ground; however, to most, school is perpetual motion. It provides one with momentum and thrusts him onward into a better prepared life. One who quits is like a snapped bow. Years and years of pulling back, and all is lost. One who cheats is like a half-drawn bow that will propel the arrow only half as far. Yet, he who fulfills it's requirements gains enough spring to shoot himself straight and sure at the rest of the world.

Change

Debbie Cook
Sherri Cook

My emotions were mixed. I was excited but scared. A new year, a new school, a really new change. But the first day everything just fell into place. I belong here. I'm much more independent and responsible with the things I do. It's like opening a hidden door and finding a different image of myself and the world I'm in. Hopefully, it will lead me to better myself and all the people surrounding me. There's no more fear or worry, just the planning and dreaming of the happenings in the future.

When I go to pep rallies, I get a great feeling because I'm able to share my school spirit with everyone else. I really just let out all of my feelings. A Big Step

I'm a sophomore. Wow! A Bethel Bruin! This sure is a big step from junior high. But wait a minute, I'm not as popular as I was last year. What can I do to gain popularity? I know! I'll join all the clubs and then everybody will know me.

I'm sorry, Mr. Ellis. I can't make the Science Club meeting tomorrow. Why not? Because Mrs. Eaton said if I missed one more Drama Club meeting she'd kick me out of the club. And after that's over? Well, after that Mrs. Smackum is taking the Spanish Club on a field trip. See you later, Mr. Ellis. I have to go explain to Mr. Pierpont why I missed yesterday's meeting of the Key Club so that I could go to Mr. Benson's Shop Club meeting. Oh my gosh! I'm thirty minutes late for football practice. Coach Koz will kill me. I consider myself a condemned man.

Enjoying

Looking at the different clubs, I decided to get involved, but in which ones? I attended the meetings of many clubs and soon became a member of the Science-Math Club, the Yearbook Staff, and the Drama Club. Both the Science-Math Club's Road Rally and the Drama Club's play kept me busy for a long while. Now working with the yearbook, I'm really enjoying B.H.S. Even though I am only a sophomore, I feel that I'm a part of Bethel High.

Hours of Practice

Being a member of the Bethel High Band is an honor in its own way. The excitement of going places and being a part of this organization can be very rewarding.

Even though the band is a group of people, each person has to put forth special effort to sound good.

If a person is sitting last chair in a section, he should remember he is still important, for not everyone has the skill to play an instrument, and at least he does.

The more a person practices, the better the band will be.

A Power Intangible...

People from all walks of life have risen to great acclaim because of their outstanding achievements in different areas. Clark Harrison is one of those people. He has placed first in the Amateur Athletic Union's Regional Wrestling Tournament and in the AAU Eastern National Tournament. There is a "high" in wrestling for Clark, something to relate to. "People that don't have anything to identify with seem kind of lost," says Clark. But not only is he an award winning wrestler, he is a deep, compassionate human being with an insatiable love for life.

This side of Clark is revealed through his writing of poetry. To sit and talk with him about his writing is to feel a power generating within him, a power intangible, yet so strong, that is sensuates and activates every nerve and emotion in your body. Clark once stated, "My main task in life is to open someone's eyes to life and see it for what it really is." Life and beauty, innocent, natural beauty is what Clark writes about. If he does not believe in it or if he does not feel it, he will not write about it. And imagine, he is just a sophomore.

It's Over...

Sitting out in the rain watching the football game, leading the team on to victory and yourself to a cold, but you don't want to leave for fear that you might miss something important, a key play, a fight or something like that.

Then the rain stops and wind starts to blow. Now you're freezing. So you get up, walk around, do a few cheers trying to keep warm.

A touchdown is scored. You jump, yell, scream, and at that moment, you are not cold. But a few minutes later your're freezing again. Teeth chattering, knees knocking, but you don't want to leave because you got the feeling you're going to miss something. So you sit there. Ra, Ra! Go team, go! The game is over. There were no exciting plays, no fights, no nothing. And now you realize that you could have been home in a nice warm bed asleep, but you're glad you came.

Cheerleaders perform for the sophomores during orientation.

That First Day

The summer went by so fast it seemed like school had just let out and it was time to start again. I had been looking forward to coming to Bethel, but when the day arrived I realized I was nervous. After I got to school and talked to my friends I found out they felt the same way. I was lucky because two of my closest friends were in my homeroom. After being in homeroom a little while we went on a tour of the school. It wasn't a very thorough tour, so we were all afraid we would get lost. But to save us from despair, they gave us a map of the school.

We went to the auditorium for the orientation. They introduced us to the staff and the S.C.A. officers. Then the librarian took over and presented a film on the library. The film was long and we began to get restless. After the film was finally over we went back to our homerooms. There we received our schedules. Now it was time for the homeroom teachers to turn us loose in hopes of finding our first periods. To my surprise, at the end of the day, I realized that I hadn't gotten lost at anytime and everything had fallen into place.

Screaming Eardrum-splitters

People yelling, screaming, stomping, slapping, hitting sticks against cans, and being general ear drum-splitters. Teachers trying to keep some semblance of order. Then some cheerleaders jumping, yelling, and performing the usual gut-tearing, gymnastic gyrations. Enter the majorettes with batons twirling all over the place. The effect is dizzying. The band is playing as loudly as possible, but still you can't hear them over the chants of "Seniors," "Juniors," and "Sophomores."

All of this chaos, confusion, and conglomeration of sound stand for one common idea, spirit. School spirit, a kind of spirit that reaches into you and drowns you in pride for Bethel. Suddenly, you hear yourself yelling right along with the others. You know this is where you belong, with people just like you.

Administration

Faculty

Receiving a call from a parent, Mr. Gillikin explains attendance policy.

In the conference room, Mr. Gant talks with a student about his schedule.

Making their daily rounds are Mr. Shupe and Mr. Croft.

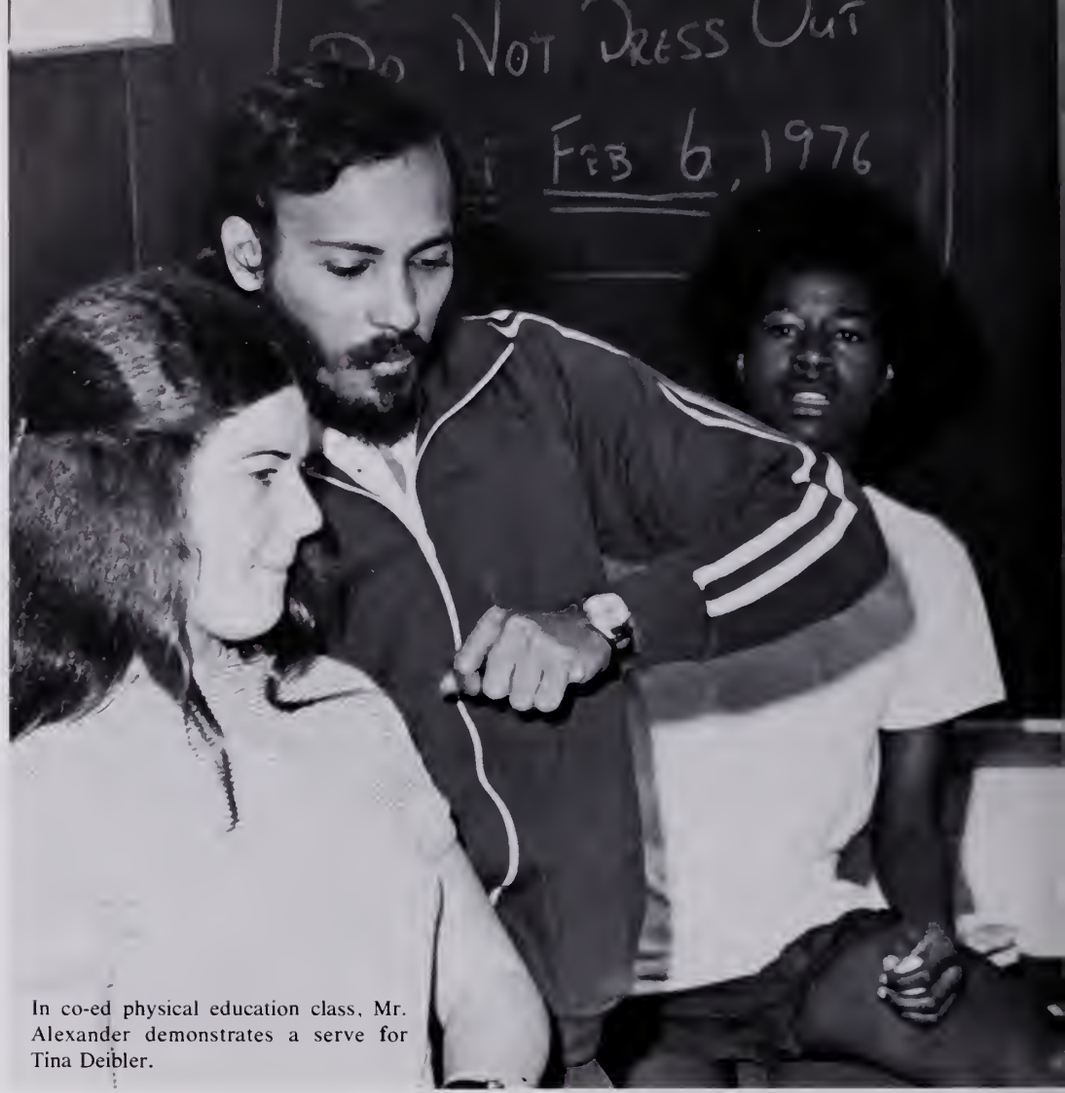
Assistants Aid Mr. Gillikin

Principal Dennis Gillikin was aided by an administrative staff of three assistant principals. Mr. Rufus Gant, assistant principal for instruction, worked closely with guidance and department chairmen on student scheduling. He also conducted teacher observations. In charge of student activities, Mr. Robert Croft was the coordinator for all club events. Mr. Bolen Shupe's job included the maintainence of the building. Both Mr. Croft and Mr. Shupe worked with boys' discipline.

Assisted by Mr. Gillikin, Mr. Croft makes the morning announcements.

Responding to Mr. Croft's joke, Mr. Gillikin laughs.

Part of Mr. Gant's responsibilities includes conducting teacher observations.



In co-ed physical education class, Mr. Alexander demonstrates a serve for Tina Deibler.

Mr. Bennett's OK!

Some teachers try to put too much work on you and expect you to do it all in such a short time. And there are some that don't explain what they want you to do in detail and this messes you up. You end up doing the work wrong. But Mr. Bennett is O.K. He can understand what is going on and if the work is late, it is alright. There are some teachers that make school really special. And if it weren't for them, school wouldn't be worth coming to. Some classes are always better than others.

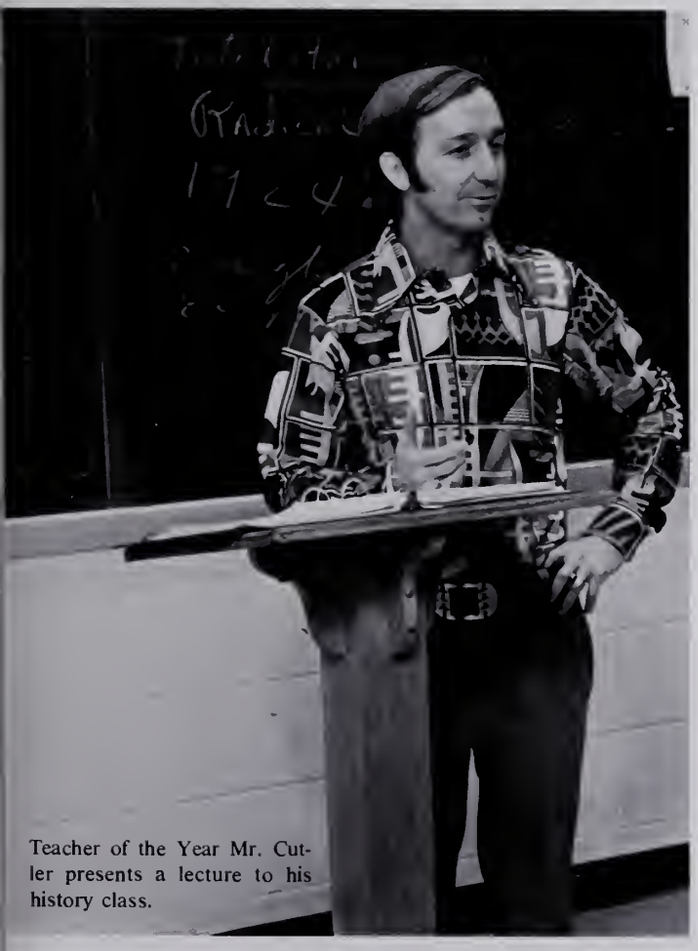
Cutler Voted Teacher of Year



Teacher of the Year Mr. Cutler presents a lecture to his history class.

I had the pleasure of attending Mr. Cutler's history class. We all had a good time. Even when we were working hard, he would try to make it easier by giving us a break or showing a movie or something. Mr. Cutler's class was the only one I failed.

Mr. Cutler would always tell events in history and then make a joke about it. Even though I failed his class, I still think alot about him. This sounds corny, but if I get his class again, the least I will do is try my best.

Mrs. Hooper and WGH

When I went into Mrs. Hooper's office, I was quick to notice that from the midst of college catalogs, paintings, and schedules came the familiar sounds of WGH. I was also greeted by a smile, somewhat odd considering how soon it was after the beginning of another nine week period — a time when tension and anxiety usually rise above the level of normal sanity.

Mrs. Hooper is a first-year guidance counselor. She seems to be, and it is hard to believe, well-adjusted to the hectic, run-around, pull-your-hair-out routine followed by counselors. She says she is very happy with her new position and favors it above teaching. However, she justifies the change by adding, "I enjoy teaching but I'm not a disciplinarian."

One of a Kind . . .

Mr. T is special. He's one of a kind. He's able to control himself. When you're good, he's good. But when you're bad, he's bad. He teaches the kind of material that's not boring. All he asks is the you pay attention, take notes, and you'll be okay. Another reason he's special is his loud talking, his pressure points (on you), and his knocking around the room. And when I say that I mean when you really misbehave, you get knocked around the room! It's the kind of class one dreams of getting — lively and interesting.

Yearbook staff members spent hours combing Mercury Boulevard for advertisers for Ursa Major.

Early in September Ursa Major staff members began soliciting advertisements for volume eight. Hopeful and enthusiastic, students divided the Northhampton area. They returned to Bethel discouraged. Economic conditions prevented small businesses from advertising in the yearbook. Large companies gave them the runaround. Nevertheless, staff members contracted for over $700 in advertisements.

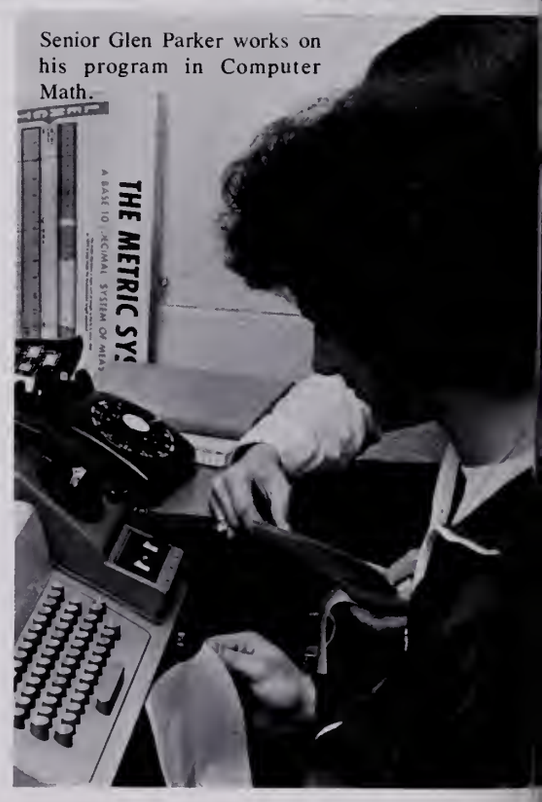
Chemistry students prepare to conduct an experiment.

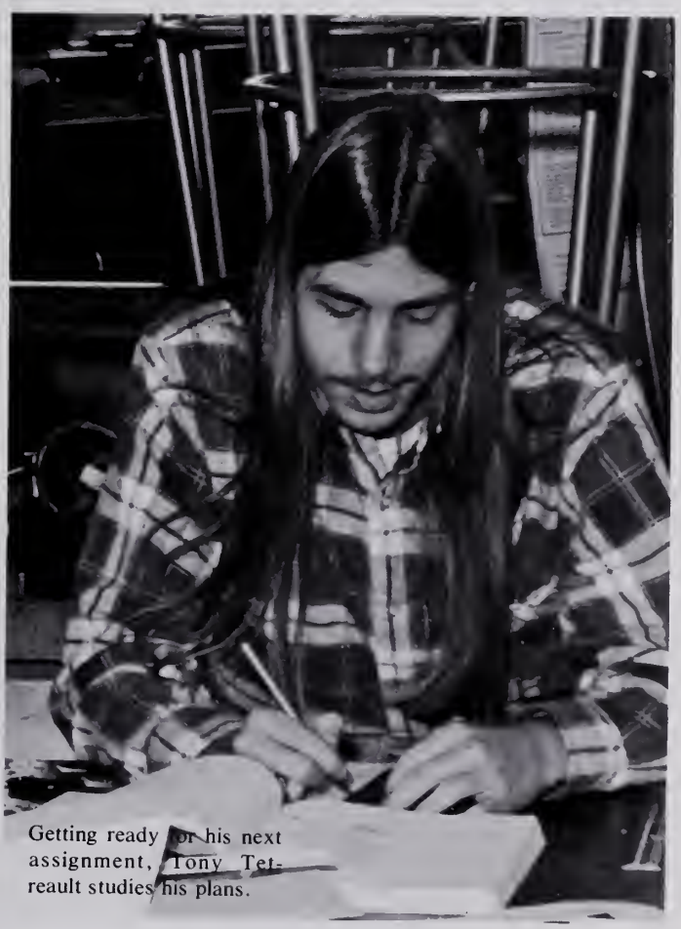
Express

We found 1976 to be a special year — one that afforded us the opportunity to express ourselves in many ways. We could show our patriotism by being involved in the Bicentennial or our loyalty to Bethel by being involved in school activities. Or we may have chosen to be more involved in ourselves — developing our potentials. Regardless of the approach, we took advantage of the chances for self-expression.



Senior Glen Parker works on his program in Computer Math.

Cutting wood is just one of the projects for Woodshop students.



Getting ready for his next assignment, Tony Tetreault studies his plans.

Seniors wait patiently for the graduation processional.

Members of the Ursa Major staff would like to thank all those individuals who helped with our eighth volume. Special gratitude is expresses to Mr. John Perry, Mr. Don Gardner, Mrs. J.R. Stortz, Mrs. Susan Davis, and Mr. Wilson Moore.

Self
